HEADS THEATERS FOR BOYS IN CAMP

Marc Klaw.

Marc Klaw, who has charge of the new playhouses in the army and navy cantonments, is about the busiest theatrical manager in the country at present. He will present the best plays and the leading American actors to the boys in camp and the highest-priced seats are twenty-five cents. "Smileage Books" containing tickets for the Liberty theaters are one of Klaw's ideas and you may buy them and send them to the boys you know at camp.

BISHOP FALLOWS TO SPEAK HERE FRIDAY AT MYERS THEATRE

Private, Captain, Chaplain, Colonel and Brigadier General of the Civil War Days and Noted Churchman to Talk Here.

The White House, Washington, Nov. 9th, 1917. My dear Doctor Mott: A special campaign for $35,000,000 which the Y. M. C. A. has inaugurated is of vital importance to the work of increasing the contentment and efficiency of our soldiers. It is fundamental to making morale the basis of military morale, and should encourage the generous support of all our people. I am proud to be a part of this great work. I am proud to be a part of this great work. I am proud to be a part of this great work.

When Bishop Samuel Fallows graduated from the University of Wisconsin in the class of 1869, he was one of the Civil War veterans being heard. When Fort Sumter was fired upon in April of 1861, one of the first men to leave his work and join the army was Bishop Fallows. He was one of those first seventy-five thousand called for by President Lincoln to preserve the Union. Then he became a captain and then he came to Wisconsin to help re-form the Iron Brigade regiments. Later as chaplain he again entered the service, but the soldier spirit was dominant and he was made a brigadier general. Today he is one of the four members of the Wisconsin troops in the Sixties now living.

On Friday night General Samuel Fallows will speak to the citizens of Janesville at the Myers theatre. He is the minister at the conclusion of his war experience, he donned the blue, only to put on the sash of the militia warrior of Christ. For many years he has been a member of the Episcopal church and his sermons in his Chicago church have attracted nationwide attention. Loyal to the core, a man with the experience of a camp life, a student of human nature, an admirer of the government under which we are living, Bishop Fallows has a message for each man and woman in Janesville. He talks right from the shoulder and what he says is the truth. He comes to Janesville on the invitation of the committee having charge of the drive for the army "Y" work and he knows what is needed and how badly it is needed. He knows by past experience and present investigation. Perhaps no man of his prominence of the "Cloth" knows better, and consequently his talk should be of material interest.

To entertain Bishop Fallows is an honor for any community and to hear one of his spirited addresses a treat well worth traveling miles to listen to. The campaign that plans to place in every camp and cantonment, both here and in Europe where American soldiers are, a building where they can get a taste of home life; a center for men of all religions and creeds and one place in their day's work where they can find good recreation and restful. No man who has ever served Uncle Sam in any capacity can fail to understand the temptations, that exist and the work of the "Y."

Bishop Fallows will take you back to "war days" of the Sixties and then bring you up to modern war days of "1917" and the changes that have been wrought. In the Sixties, the Christian Endeavor was a primary to the Red Cross work of today, was the only real center for the soldiers. True, certain regiments built churches and held services. A. W. Hall, a member of the "Y" organization, as part of the work of his regiment in Virginia, tells of that with pride, but nothing like the present-day "Y" work was even dreamed of.

Bishop Fallows went through those days as a soldier in the "blue," today he talks to you as a soldier of the Church Militant, but with the experience and investigation with the modern conditions to back his statements. His talk will be well worth listening to. It will be a rare opportunity for Janesville citizens to hear such a man. He will speak to the public at the Myers theatre Friday evening, eight o'clock, and all should hear him.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Board of Supervisors Are Guests of Training School at Patriotic Program.

Kept to the high plane of patriotism was the program given yesterday by the board of supervisors at the training school. From the "Gettysburg Address," which was given most impressively by Miss Margaret Sanger, of the Red Cross, to the singing of America, given by the pupils of the model school, all features united to emphasize the thought of loyalty to the nation and the great.

American soldiers are the best in the world because they have been taught to think, was a statement made by Charles L. Harney, and during an address on "The War and Our Schools." We were not prepared for war, said Mr. Harney. Neither were we prepared for peace. The war was Germany. And she had been preparing for one hundred years with the most elaborate system of public education that any nation could have. The program was her policy. Scientific schools, special training for any one showing aptitude in certain lines, as spelled education. Out of 2,000 men conscripted since the war began only one was found that could not read and write. Russia, on the contrary, has few schools, and the people are not united by a common purpose. The civilization of the future, the speaker thought, depended on public education. Children must be taught efficiency and military training from the time they first started to school, he said. The speaker dwelt particularly on the need of educating the boys and girls of the future. The places where the school children of Wisconsin are entitled to the best that we can give them, said Mr. Harney.

He then turned to the country schools as being one of the powerful forces in training the citizens of the future, and in this line the county training schools have the important task of preparing the teachers of the country schools how to be more efficient. Mr. Harney took the place on the program as assigned to Hon. C. P. Cary, who had been called away on special business to Washington.

"Americans must hold hands and have hearts that beat together," if they would rise to the great possibilities of the day, said Rev. J. A. Harney. He then addressed on "Some Educational Aspects of the War Situation." That we can learn a great deal from the methods of the German nation which has brought together a powerful force by its school systems, was one of the thoughts emphasized by Rev. Harney. But he went further than that in advocating the idea that a school system should have a religious backing. Not denominational teaching, said Mr. Harney, but the deep, vital things of life which makes earnest citizens. We can learn from Germany her methods, but we must keep the German ideal, said the speaker. The German nation has no thought of humanity was one of the ideas emphasized by Rev. Harney. It has only the pride of its own importance, as and custodians of the great world "kultur" to go upon. The thought of the nation is, "Almighty God has put it upon the German people to hand on their Kultur to posterity," and they will go through any trials to accomplish their great mission. Our problem now as nations is to keep the German ideal, said the speaker. The commercial idea of an education for business reasons, only by the higher thought of an education that will make better citizens. In days of peace the schools are the centers of moral and religious life, who are capable of great sacrifices. He closed by expressing the hope that days like the present might weld the higher type of patriotism which would carry her "over the top."

As a prelude to the program a delightful luncheon was served to the board of supervisors and a few of the county officials. Among these were Messrs. Lee, Church and Markham. The tables were set for fifty-five. The menu was in charge of the domestic science teacher of the training school, who is Miss Beth Palmer of Spring Valley. The preparation of the meal and the service was done by the pupils of the school as part of their school curriculum. The whole affair is designed to keep the county board in touch with the working methods of the training school.

RED CROSS WORKERS WILL FOSTER SAVING

Manila Envelopes Will be Conserved. Committee Also Appointed to Aid in Gathering Other Incidentals.

Mrs. H. A. Ford has been made head of a special committee to save the surplus of Manila envelopes, such as circulars are sent in. The fact that they have written matter upon them does not matter. They are needed by the committee on surplus to be used in France in which place they are completed goods. Cotton and paper are high in price, and difficult to obtain over there.

This committee on incidentals is composed of Miss Margaret Sanger, Miss Harriet Carlo and Miss Sybil Richardson, who will make collections of these articles. They will also be glad to obtain the tops of old gloves and the shoes and the tops of old hats. Donations of blocks of paraffine is also requested by a group of girls who are making trench candles. They are Mrs. Sophie Syntz and the Misses E. E. Eddy, Adams and Schwery. They are working in the evening and are assisted by Mrs. Francis Grant.

The pupils of Miss Casford's school are engaged in various kinds of war work, among them being the cutting out of paper dolls, to add to the Christmas packages for the children of Europe. They ask for good colored paper plates to be donated for this purpose. Many women working in this county have expressed their intention of omitting Christmas presents this year and devoting the money saved to relief work. A committee has been formed to prevent useless giving, has been receiving many recruits as the holiday season draws near.

A Box Social: You are cordially invited to attend the program and box social given by the pupils of District No. 3 at the Harmony town hall at 8 o'clock on Friday, November 23rd. Please bring boxes. Isabel McGregor, teacher.

MARJORIE BENNETT UNITED IN MARRIAGE

Prominent Young Lady is Married To Howard Parsons Marshall of Milwaukee, Thursday Afternoon.

Miss Marjorie Bennett of this city, and Howard Parsons Marshall of Milwaukee, were united in marriage, on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 15th, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Margaret Sanger of 301 Terrace street, at three o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. A. Harney, of the Presbyterian church. It was a very quiet affair, only the immediate family being present.

Mr. Marshall is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and of Harvard Business College, in Cambridge. He belongs to the fraternity of the Beta Theta Phi. Mrs. Marshall was also a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and of Carroll College at Waukesha, and is a member of the Sigma Phi Beta sorority.

The groom has enlisted in the Aviation corps of the United States army, and is now in training at the Army Air Corps, in England, where he will have to report on Nov. 14. They will spend a short time in Chicago, and the next six weeks at Urbana, when the couple will be married. They don't know where, probably some place in the south.

JOSEPHINE M'CARTHY BRIDE OF WEDNESDAY

Richard C. Roherty Married Miss Josephine E. McCarthy at St. Patrick's Church Wednesday Morning.

Miss Josephine E. McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. McCarthy of 537 N. Washington street, and Richard C. Roherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Roherty, of the town of Center, were united in marriage at St. Patrick's church, on Wednesday morning, Nov. 14, at half past seven. Father Mahoney performed the ceremony. It was a quiet family wedding, only the family and a few intimate friends attended. Immediately after the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at nine o'clock, at the home of the bride. The living room was decorated with pink and white and yellow chrysanthemums. A four course breakfast was served.

The bride wore a taupe suit and hat to match, and carried a corsage bouquet of Miss E. McCarthy, who wore a burgundy suit and hat, and carried a bouquet of white roses.

The wedding was attended by his brother, James Roherty, and later for a short wedding journey, and they will be at home at 1110 Olive street. The young people have many friends in this city, who will extend congratulations.

STEALS BACON FROM LOCAL MEAT MARKET

Frank Rojick, Butcher at Metzinger Meat Market, Arrested for Stealing Bacon From Employer.

As a result of a tip on his previous actions, Frank Rojick, butcher at the Metzinger meat market, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing slabs of bacon from the market. Rojick was arrested when he was caught in the act of trying to sell some of his stolen goods to a restaurant on Main street.

Information given to the police led to the tracing of Rojick, who carried a heavy package with him from the market. The police followed and arrested him when he made the attempted sale. When arrested he had ninety-eight pounds of bacon in the package, which is retelling from the market at thirty-five cents per pound. It was found that all the bacon which was recovered at the time of the arrest the police have located nine more slabs and are on the watch for more, which it is hoped will be recovered. Three slabs were found in a sack in a saloon and four in his room on Center street.

It is thought that the extent of his thieving will be made known by the Metzinger proprietor, of the market, claims that he has missed more bacon than the amount recovered. Efforts will be made by the police to locate the information and to find the hiding places of the remainder. Roy Worthington made the arrest of Rojick.

DAIRY MEN TO HAVE PROMINENT SPEAKER

Arrangements have been made for the forty-sixth annual meeting of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association, which will be held at the Janesville city hall November 20, 21 and 22. For this meeting five big men have been obtained—men who are big in the dairy and farm world. One of the men who will speak is E. S. Brigham, a commissioner of agriculture in Vermont. Mr. Brigham is a farmer and has made good at the head of Vermont's department of agriculture. He has been a strong factor in popularizing the dairy industry, has won the confidence of the people of the state. Rumor has it that he can be governor whenever he cares to become a candidate, but he seems satisfied to head the biggest work in the dairy rather than to appoint the men who do.

The first bill introduced in the Vermont legislature last winter concerned Mr. Brigham's reorganization of the department and putting the whole work under the direction of Mr. Brigham. The action of the legislature imposed on Mr. Brigham the duties of the state commissioner of agriculture and forestry, state nursery inspector, state ornithologist, state forester, live stock commissioner, and trustee for the state agriculture school. He is also the state's representative on the national board of agriculture and forestry, state nursery inspector, state ornithologist, state forester, live stock commissioner, and trustee for the state agriculture school.

Commissioner Brigham is a farmer, as were his father and his grandfather before him, and he has been a dairyman all his life. He is a member of the "Milk Producer and Co-operation."

THERE ARE PLENTY OF SPOTS BUT NEED CARS TO MOVE THEM

The railroads are now moving what promises to be the biggest potato crop in the history of the country. The crop, which is estimated to total approximately 450 million bushels, or half again as much as last year, has been on the way since the middle of September. The managers of it will continue until about April 1st, next year.

Milton News

Milton, Nov. 14.—Last Saturday night was the big night for the Oros of Milton college. Eight o'clock found thirty-four Oros with their fair friends assembled in the Crophallan room in Whitford hall. After a short business session the stirring notes of the bugle sounded the assembly. At the call to arms, the merrymakers formed in line, and to the roll of the drum, marched in double file toward the S. B. B. church, where a sumptuous repast awaited them. Shortly after their arrival at the church, "mess" was served in double file toward the S. B. B. church, where a sumptuous repast awaited them. Shortly after their arrival at the church, "mess" was served in double file toward the S. B. B. church, where a sumptuous repast awaited them.

The dinner was served in five courses by the ladies of Circle number three. The meal was not quite as elaborate as in former years owing to the food conservation campaign but it was, nevertheless, fit for a king. The banquet was seasoned with "Attic" salt.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands of distressing cases.

Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription for special diseases, makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Get treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you first wish to test this great preparation send for a case to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette.

The Janesville Gazette

New Bldg. 200-201 E. Milwaukee St.

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT JANESVILLE, WIS., AS SECOND CLASS MAIL MATTER.

BUSINESS OFFICE OPEN SATURDAY EVENING.

This newspaper is a member of the Wisconsin Patriotic Press Association and pledges its uncompromising loyalty to our government in this war.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all dispatches received by it or by other news agencies in this paper and also the local news published herein.

SNAP JUDGMENT.

The Gazette maintains no retainers' fee from any German sympathizer, for in this day and age, in this war, such a person is an enemy of the whole community and should be placed where he can do no further damage, but make the suggestion that snap judgments as to the loyalty of this or that citizen of German birth or extraction be not made to the detriment of the individual. Too often a word idly spoken, an action misinterpreted, has led to the suggestion that this or that man was German and a menace to the community.

Rock county has many citizens of German birth or German lineage. While a few, a very few, have shown the olden heart and a desire to continue to wear the collar of servitude of the Kaiser, the majority have shown their loyalty to this government in more ways than one. Actions speak louder than words. To simply reiterate the oath of allegiance, to mutter through the ceremonies of loyalty to the land of their adoption, is not sufficient test, but still the training of centuries of strict discipline and belief that the "fatherland" is always right, really does not disappear in a moment. It takes time, and meanwhile our Rock county citizens are passing through a transformation period that others should have patience with.

Very recently a case of a citizen of foreign birth was reported to certain authorities as having uttered disloyal statements. Investigation showed that he had been goaded into making claims, which when repeated had transformed a mole hill into a mountain. It was a case of snap judgment for this one particular individual has a son and a nephew in the army, two cousins in training camps, and has himself given liberally, in his means, the purchase of Liberty bonds and Red Cross work.

However, this is but one case, and there are many others similar in nature. But there is another side to the page and on this is written the names of those foreigners, and unfortunately they are not all of German extraction or birth, who have shown their contempt for the United States, and while buying bonds and subscribing to funds, have indicated their delight at every victory for the Kaiser, and doubtless would give material aid to his cause if possible, while posing as loyal American citizens.

These are being carefully listed and if they disappear from our midst no questions need be asked as to Uncle Sam's in a nice comfortable home for them until the expiration of the present war. However, meantime, do not pass snap judgments upon our fellow citizens. Watch carefully before listening to or that neighbor as an "undesirable alien," but keep your eyes open for any overt act and report them promptly to the authorities. In Rock county the sheriff is the man to notify or some federal officer at Madison.

ARE YOU LISTED?

Of course you are listed as a supporter of the Y. M. C. A. drive for funds for the army Y. M. C. A. work? You have not failed to discover the wonderful work this organization, that not only establishes centers in this country, but travels to foreign climes, to give aid and comfort to the boys in khaki. Perhaps you have no one near and dear to you in the ranks? If not, some of your friends have, and by your dollars you will aid materially in maintaining their comfort by your contribution. You do not receive a bond for this money. You do not draw dollars and cents interest for capital invested, but you will have the satisfaction of knowing you have done your "bit" as thousands of others, have done to make the life of our boys in the army safe from the temptations and environments of camp life that deteriorate the soldier of the foreign wars. We sent our boys out physically perfect, with good moral training; let them return to us in the same condition. Aided by the "Y" boys they can, and when the war is over and they take their places again in our business world they will be bigger, better and stronger men for their experience in fighting the foe. Contribute, and contribute freely, to the fullest extent of your purse.

THE ITALIAN DEFEAT.

The explanation so far given for the great defeat and retreat of the Italian army seems inadequate. The Italians up to this catastrophe have conquered the most stupendous difficulties. The British and French could barely make progress in a level country. Yet those pitiful Italian fighters could hack their way over precipitous cliffs and high mountains.

It is hard to believe that the Italians could have met this great defeat on the basis of fighting ability alone, or even from superior German strategy. It looks like treachery somewhere. Not that any unit of the Italian army or any commander has played false, for these soldiers have shown splendid patriotic feeling.

It will be recalled that when the Roumanians were defeated last year it was reported that German spies had secured for German headquarters the full plans of the Roumanian staff.

It looks like a case of that steady lack of information that goes on all the time through the German spy system. This system, established by the Germans in all the allied countries before the war, is now producing results. It constantly informs the German commanders about conditions inside the allied armies. One can't help feeling that through this spy system Germany became aware that there was a weak and poorly guarded back door to the Italian line, and was tipped off by its agents as to how that door could be broken as any Italian have sold out their country, only that all through such allied country German spies are secretly listening and transmitting information. It shows what a terrible threat German power is, and how the nations of the earth must strive to put down a power that thus seeks to control the whole earth by these insidious means.

Some one asks what has become of the old time restaurants that used to hang out the sign, "Regular dinner 25 cents." Dunno, but last heard from one of them he said he was going to quit philanthropy and go into business.

Advertising was considered profitable to the merchant and interesting to the public in days when it was regarded as impolite to mention the price of things in conversation. How much more so now, when everyone is talking about prices every day.

When a man is seen lurking around a food storage warehouse late at night, it is not a wholly satisfactory explanation that he is an astronomer engaged in observing the stars.

These German spies who circulate these yarns about transports sunk by submarines, should remember they are living in a country where real newspapers are published.

An exchange remarks that Mr. "execute" a solo at a local church Sunday morning. It is not stated whether he is going to electrocute it or merely hang it.

Long distance telephone messages taxed now, and after one listens a little to soap box orators and telephone visiting, this idea of taxing talk seems to have great possibilities.

Washington having gone dry, it is expected that the congressmen will find it frequently necessary to run over to New York to inspect the progress of the war work.

It is certainly hard to paper the pantry shelves for the Thanksgiving pies without the Congressional Record.

Any man who grows old and help shortens the time we have to pay them.

The trouble with the Italians is said to be that the Germans monkeyed with the hand organ man.

Kaiser Bill came very near getting in his Italian drive just in time to help the Liberty loan sale.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

THE PROFITEERS

"Gosh darn it, Bill, these profiteers 'Are bleedin' us to death," Said Ferner Brown down at the store. "They take away my breath. You have to take an airship now When you go out to buy. Us farmers can't touch anything. The price has soared so high."

"These profiteers now, in the fall And also in the spring, They get together, and they boost The price of everything. They're grabbin' everything around And pay the price we must. If there's no thing I really hate It is a gold-dust trust."

"What's that you say—half-past eight? Great Scott! our meeting on 'What sort of meeting?' do you say. Just pass that demijohn. You don't mean to tell me Bill. You haven't heard the plan. To get together here this fall And get all that we can."

"Profiteers they are far too cheap, And butter ain't too high. Us farmers we control the stuff The city boys must buy. The city folks can't plow and hoe And milk and rake up hay. They'll all have to come to us. We'll tell 'em what to pay."

R. K. M.: The following gentlemen are dealers in food at various points in the United States. Please call Mr. Hoover's attention to them: George Gorman, Rochester, N. Y. Mathias Kaiser, Chicago, Ill. James Lawless, Morristown, N. J. M. Prussion, New York. H. D.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Gehenna, Oct. 14, 1917. R. K. M.: I am down here for some time now and heil is no joke. Take that from an expert.

I have been patient, and I have never felt like busting out and starting something back in dear old Flanders until just lately. I hear the crown prince has been calling Sacre bleu! What have I done? One more crack like that, and believe me, he, this place will never hold me. I will come back to earth and bring my present rhode with me. Yours, N. BONAPARTE.

AND THEN THE "MARRIED LIFE"

WRITERS QUEER IT ALL. This is the way they start out on the sea matrimony in Steuerman county, Ohio, according to one society editor:

"Eyes gazed into eyes flaming with love as they knelt at the marriage shrine, while the minister's words which blended their loving hearts fell like the dew of heaven on their bowed heads. The groom was the strong, majestic oak; the bride the tender, clinging vine. Her luxuriant tresses were garnished with jewels and she was a radiant queen of love, joy and beauty, and he was a cavalier in whose heart she had become enshrined."

They make a small bet the minister didn't say a word about the high cost of living.

We have read recently a great deal about the "cheaper cuts of meat." We decided to buy them.

Then the trouble started. We located the "cheaper cuts" on the table in the chart, but we haven't been able to locate them in the meat market. The butchers we have interviewed never heard of them.

The Husbands Canning Club is announced over in a Jersey town. Now seems to be the time to can your husbands, girls. And so many are doing it, too.

It's quite a movement. Horrors! There are only 200,000,000 gallons of whiskey, gin and brandy left in this country. Hardly enough for one goose to lose all its brain.

War is gradually taking on a sinister aspect. "Some men," said Uncle Eben, "overworks their piety so hard on Sunday day they feel called on to give it six days' rest."

BIBLE PICTURE QUERY—28

Where in the Bible is the First Mention of a Man Shaving Himself?

Curious and Unusual Bible Questions

Look at the picture above, then turn to your Bible and find the answer to the question. The picture illustrates the verse in which the answer will be found.

Each week we will publish an illustrated question from the Bible and the following week publish the answer. See if you can find the answer before we publish it! Make a family pastime of this interesting feature—it will amuse and instruct you.

Last Week's Question and the Answer

Last week's query: "Who built the first city mentioned in the Bible?" is answered in Genesis, Chapter 4, Verse 17:

"And Cain knew his wife, and she conceived, and bare Enock: and he builded a city, and called the name of the city, after the name of his son, Enock."

THE HAPPIEST WAY.

There is so much to know, so little time to learn: So many corners on a life's road, one wonders which way to turn; This one may lead to pleasure gay, and this to wisdom true. And this if we could follow it might lead to friendships new; Yet none can ever tread them all, nor grain life's cup of bliss. Chance leads us to the joys we find and past the joys we miss.

We know that some paths lead to shame and some to grief and woe. But there are byways, here and there, whose ends we'll never know. And there are roads we'd like to tread, yet duty spurs us on, and there are goals we'd like to reach, yet we must strive for one. Not all of life is ours to know; not all its work we do. The race of men to come shall learn some truths we never knew.

At best we blindly rush along, in haste we love or spurn, and what we miss another claims, and misses in his turn. There is so much for man to know, so little time to choose. For every joy we win from life we pay with joys we lose. No one of mortal clay has solved the secret of life's plan. The happiest way is for us all to do the best we can.

Evansville News

Evansville, Wisconsin, Nov. 15.—Evansville is doing her bit in the interest of the national Y. M. C. A. movement. Leonard Eger's the chairman for this district and he and his corps of workers are hard at work raising the money—$25,000—that has been apportioned to Evansville. It is needless to say what the Y. M. C. A. stands for, what it does, for we know the good it has done, the world over, in large cities, in air places, in times of peace, in times of war. It is the need of thousands of young men deprived of all home influences, in times of war? Any national movement should receive the hearty support of each and every one who can possibly do their bit. The plea is given that it is nothing but give, give all the time, but it must be remembered that "war" spells "sacrifice" not only to those in the trenches but to those at home as well.

The many Evansville friends of Mrs. Grace Biedenger of East Chicago, Ind., will be grieved to learn of a very serious automobile accident that recently occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Biedenger with their three children and three other children who were enjoying an automobile ride with them, faced death, and only for the presence of mind of Mrs. Biedenger, all would have been killed outright. In crossing a railroad track, where the view of the track was obstructed, no one saw the train coming until it was almost upon them. The engine was killed and the automobile stalled on the track when Mrs. Biedenger screamed and her husband to jump and run. This they both did simultaneously, pushing the car almost from the track before the engine struck it, for the engineer, too, had applied the emergency brakes. The automobile was completely wrecked, and in the throwing out of the six children, one child suffered a broken collar bone, one a broken arm, and another a skull fracture. The other three were face downwards across the track, and were badly bruised. All of the victims are improving nicely at the present writing.

PIMPLES

Why so many young men and especially otherwise beautiful women allow their faces to be disfigured with unsightly pimples is beyond me, says Peterson.

Every druggist in America who cares to speak freely will tell you that one 25c box of Peterson's Ointment is guaranteed to banish every pimple or other skin eruption, or money back—and it won't take more than 10 days to do it.

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment in skin diseases, Eczema, Salt Rheum, Sore Nipples, Old Sores, Ulcers, Varicose Ulcers, blind, bleeding and itching piles, is almost beyond belief and the small price puts it within reach of all.

Dr. W. Burg of Erie, Pa., writes: "I had suffered with Eczema of the left ear and scalp for over 25 years, but a small box of Peterson's Ointment has entirely eradicated it."

Druggists are authorized to guarantee it. Peterson's Ointment 30c after December 1st.

MOFFETT TESTIMONY IMPORTANT IN CASE

MERTON MOFFETT PRESENTS IMPORTANT TESTIMONY IN HARTIN CASE IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

HARTIN HAD REVOLVER

Evidence Shows That Hartin Took Gun With Him When He Left Evansville on Evening of November 1st.

Testimony relative to the whereabouts of the alleged murderer of H. A. Krause in a shack along the banks of the Rock river near Bedford's Beach, during the time of the murder and previous to the time of the trial, was given by Merton Moffett, who was called by the attorneys for the defense, as well as by the state, S. B. MacCauley, night captain of the Beloit police force, was the first witness called, and he testified that he had seen Hartin, Fred Hartin as he was wanted in connection with the murder of Krause. Further than that his testimony was of minor detail.

Evidence as to the destination of Hartin when he left Beloit to go to Waupun to meet Krause, who was to be released from the penitentiary, was brought forward to show that he did go to Waupun to meet his pal. F. W. Gilman, chief of police from Evansville, took the stand, telling of his apprehension of Hartin after the warrants for his arrest in connection with the murder were received. Hartin was arrested in Oswego, New York, and held by the authorities there, awaiting the arrival of Chief Gilman. He told of the conversation with Hartin on the return trip, in which valuable information was secured. Following the murder, Hartin left for Chicago, then he went direct to Montana. While in Montana he enlisted in the aviation service of the United States. Following his being transferred to another branch of the service at Fort Leavenworth, he deserted because of trouble with a man who recognized him. Hartin claims that this man asked for money or he would disclose his identity.

The next step on Hartin's part was to enlist as a fireman on a British freighter and the making of two trips to Italy and return. He was given an honorable discharge from the service.

Previous to the murder Hartin was located in Evansville, where he was working and boarding. On the afternoon given by Mrs. Susie Conquill and her mother-in-law, proved the fact that Hartin was in Evansville on the afternoon of the murder. The evidence on the fact that Hartin was at their home between five and six o'clock on that afternoon and that he left after that without his destination being known.

The destination of Hartin, after leaving Evansville, is unknown because of the lack of evidence, and this fact will only be brought forward when Hartin himself appears. The testimony of John George, a brakeman on the C. & N. W. railroad, was taken yesterday afternoon in which he stated that he saw Hartin on the train and that he had heard the train and with only enough money in his pocket to take the fare.

Testimony taken late yesterday afternoon was to show that Hartin was not killed by his own hand. Doctors from Beloit who conducted the inquest were present and told of the numerous wounds found on the body of Hartin. The probable cause of the death of the results of the examination. They told of the bullet holes in the arms, heart and abdomen being in the probable cause of the death of the murdered man. They based their supposition on the fact that they noted a hemorrhage around these wounds. The wounds of Hartin and the evidence made after his death, they testified.

The case of the defendant is running in the direction of proving that Elmer Moffett was the killer. As he cannot be located at present.

Merton Moffett handed a hard knock to the defense when he testified that Elmer Moffett was the killer in the Evansville on the day and evening of the murder. On the evening of November 1, Moffett was intoxicated to the extent that he was unable to leave the house, while on the other hand Hartin left the house on that evening and returned the next day.

The fact that Hartin had deposited a revolver with them when he started boarding with the wife for safe keeping was also advanced. The revolver was a .32 calibre and was locked away in a drawer, but the key hung nearby. Following the departure of Hartin, the search for the weapon revealed the fact that it was gone.

Barbara Moffett, wife of Merton Moffett, substantiated the statements of her husband relative to the fact that Elmer Moffett was the killer on the evening of the murder and the fact that he remained at home.

From the testimony advanced this morning it is now certain that Hartin worked in Beloit following the murder and remained there for about eight or ten days. The knowledge that the police were on his trail in connection with the murder, was a constant reminder to him and his departure, followed by his two trips to Italy. At the time of the search on the part of the police, Hartin was at the home of Horace Moffett in Beloit. Horace Moffett heard that the police were on the trail of Hartin and telephoned him of the fact.

Moffett gave as his reasons for aiding Hartin were that at one time previous Hartin had been arrested for the murder of a woman and that he was in a sickly condition and he wished to avoid any excitement on her part.

"Y" IS NEEDED MORE THAN MUNITION-PERRY

That the Y. M. C. A. Will Win the War is Opinion of Frederick A. Perry, Who Spoke of His Experience.

"That man or woman, who will not give to the Y. M. C. A. a recreation fund until it hurts, a fund which keeps our boys fighting the Hun and protecting them from something worse than death, is a traitor to the American." This is the profound assertion of Frederick A. Perry, a minister who for the last year has been in back of the trenches helping to keep our boys' time occupied and who has only been in this country for two weeks. Mr. Perry spoke at the second get-together luncheon of the Y. M. C. A. recreation fund drive, at the local Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Steiner, the chairman for Rock County in the recreational fund drive, introduced Mr. Perry who then went right to the heart of the meaning of the Y. M. C. A. recreation fund drive. "The Hun has today a mighty fighting machine that the world has ever seen before, and he cannot be beaten by force of arms. Victory, economic pressure, but he will be beaten by the Y. M. C. A., which is back of every American, French, British, Italian and Russian soldier who is standing with a firm front with ever increasing pressure on the Hun line. The Hun will break morally. Before the United States entered the war it seemed as if the Hun would win, but the entry into the conflict the Allies were strengthened in morale and the German soldier weakened."

Mr. Perry used emphatic terms in regard to the need of recreation funds, and what ought to be done with them. During his talk on the pacifist he referred to "the polished and accomplished orator of the Y. M. C. A. who ought to be meted out to all of that ilk."

MRS. SARAH HOWARD CALLED BY DEATH

Pioneer Rock County Settler Passes Away at Home on Milwaukee Ave. Wednesday Afternoon.

Sarah Tarrant Howard was born November 17, 1839 in Woolhampton, Berkshire, England, coming to America with her parents when she was eleven years old. She came up the lakes to Milwaukee in 1850. After staying in Milwaukee a short time, they came to Janesville in pioneer fashion, with horses, by way of the Milwaukee road, and she ate her first meal on Janesville at the old stage house which stood at that time at the present Myers House site. Her father died suddenly two months later, leaving her mother with a family of small children to survive on their own resources. She began to work at the tailor trade when she was fourteen, and after marriage she remained in Janesville until the year 1861. Then they moved onto a farm in the town of Rock, living there for several years. She and her husband had seven children, three of whom are now living. She was a member of the Methodist church for over sixty years and her children rise up to call her blessed.

She is also survived by one brother and one sister, William Tarrant, and Mrs. Fanny Beswick.

Miss Matie Crowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Crowley of 112 Ravin street, were laid to rest this morning in the Mount Olivet cemetery. The funeral services were held at the St. Patrick's church at nine o'clock this morning.

replied Mrs. Thompson: "Last summer a young man came to this town to live and as soon as he got here all the girls were crazy about him. He got a job at a lawyer's office near where I work and very soon I got to know him quite well. Now this young man is not the kind that goes crazy over a girl, or gets so mad at a girl, or a gentleman and is polite and refined in any man I have ever known. The other evening he met me as we were leaving work and asked me to go with him to the movies."

MRS. L.: When a woman to whom you have just been introduced asks you to drink with her, you must reply with a counter invitation, saying, "Thank you; but won't you come to see me?" Instead, you should accept the invitation, and then make it as agreeable. Your call upon her later will stand as an invitation to return it. When you call upon a lady living at a house, you must always mention on your card the name of the person for whom it is intended. This is the proper door when calling at a private house, and you must never mention a name unless you know many ladies may be living there.

NED: Hot tea or coffee must not be brought in, and you must not be too cool; it is not a cold blow on A. The proper thing to do is to wait until it is cool enough to drink with a spoon. You must not stir it in a cup. When you cease to stir the beverage remove the spoon and lay it in the saucer. A man must not be seen with a spoon in his back pocket; even if he is not using it.

By Zoe Beckley

This elaborate prelude, dear, is fast by way of announcing that I am mathematically happy. When I never expected to be. It's too soon to brag, of course, but we've only been married six weeks. Still—lots of unpleasant and not to say tragic things have happened since we "knew" before they'd been married that long.

Remember Carol and Sammie Chase? He came back from their honeymoon they didn't want to see each other for a year? They were the best of friends. And Fanny Garrett girls—those awful their matrimonial ventures turned out? Whoever do you suppose happened to Fanny Garrett that she should have gone straight back to her mother's house, vowing she'd never be under her husband's roof again? And the fellow who had to pay half the expenses of the wedding trip and struggle with the hideous problem of

Now, what are you going to do about this? Honestly, May, he sees virtue in me that I or anybody else can't see. It only goes to show that marriage is all a matter of luck. A man I saw good husband or a bad one, according to the type of woman he got the type of man you see. Adois! Well, I'll spare you further panegyrics for the time.

Lovingly ever, KAT.

DRINK HABIT

Thousands of wives, mothers and sisters are enthusiastic in their praise of Orlene, because it has relieved their loved ones of the "Drink Habit" and thereby brought happiness to their homes. Orlene is prepared in two forms: No. 1, secret treatment; Orlene No. 2, the voluntary treatment. Costs only $1 a box. Ask for booklet, McCue & Buss, 14 South Main St.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This dissolves it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Outdoor Workers

are subject to exposure to all kinds of weather, and strenuous outdoor work brings the rheumatic aches. You can't afford to be laid up, so heed that first twinge of rheumatism. Use Sloan's Liniment. Clean and convenient, no need to rub, no stains, no clumsy plasters and your pain disappears.

Sprains, strains, neuralgia aches and stiff, sore muscles are all relieved by the application of Sloan's Liniment.

To Stop a Persistent, Hacking Cough

The best remedy is one you can easily make at home. Cheap.

Thousands of people normally healthy in every other respect are annoyed with a persistent hacking cough that comes year after year, disturbing their sleep and making life disagreeable. It's so needless—there's an old home-made remedy that will end such a cough easily and quickly.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Begin taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also promptly loosens a dry or tight cough, stops the troublesome throat tickle, soothes the inflamed membranes lining the throat and bronchial tubes, and relief comes almost immediately. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma there is nothing better. It tastes pleasant and keeps perfectly.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is used by millions of people every year for throat and chest colds with splendid results.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction on money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"Look Out for the Woman, King—She's Dangerous. She's Got the Brains of Asia Coupled With Western Energy."

coupled with Western energy! I think she's on our side, and I know he believes it; but watch her!"

"I am deka hal!" King grinned. But the older man continued to look as if he pitied him.

"If you get through alive, come and tell me about it afterward. Now, mind you do! I'm awfully interested, but as for envying you—"

"Envy?" King almost squeaked. He made the bedsprings rattle as he jumped. "I wouldn't swap jobs with General French, sir!"

"Nor with you, I suppose?"

"Nor with you, sir!"

"Goodby, then. Goodby, King, my boy. Goodby, Athelstan. Your brother's up the Khyber, isn't he? Give him my regards. Goodby!"

CHAPTER VI.

Long before dawn the thirty prisoners and Ismail squatted in a little herd on the up-platform of a railway station, sheltered by King, who smoked a cheroot some twenty paces away, sitting on an unmarked chest of medicine. He seemed absorbed in a book on surgery. Ismail nursed the new handbag on his knees, picking everlastingly at the lock and wondering anxiously what the bag contained to an accompaniment of low-growled sympathy.

"I am his servant—for she said so—and he said so. Then why—why in Allah's name am I not to have the key of this little bag that holds so little and is so light?"

"A razor would slit the leather easily," suggested one of the herd. "Then, later, the bag might be pushed violently against some sharp thing, to explain the cut."

Ismail shook his head.

"Why? What could he do to thee?"

"It is because I know not what he would do to me that I will do nothing," answered Ismail. "He is not at all like other sahibs I have had dealings with. This man does unexpected things. This man is not mad, he has a devil. I have it in my heart to love this man. But such talk is foolishness. We are all her men!"

"Aye! We are her men!" came the chorus, so that King looked up and watched them over the open book.

At dawn, when the train pulled out, the thirty prisoners sat safely locked in third-class compartments. King lay lazily on the cushions of a first-class carriage in the rear, and Ismail attended to the careful packing of soda water bottles in the icebox on the floor.

"Shall I open the little bag, sahib?" he asked.

"Put it over there!" King ordered. "Set it down!"

Ismail obeyed and King laid his book down to light another of his black cheroots. The theme of antiseptics ceased to exercise its charm over him. He peeled off his tunic, changed his shirt and lay back in sweet contentment. Headed for the "Hills," who would not be contented, who had been born in their very shadow?—in their shadow, of a line of Britons who have all been buried there!

"The day after tomorrow I'll see snow," he promised himself. And Ismail, glancing with yellow teeth through a gap in his wayward beard, understood and sympathized.

Forward in the third-class carriages the prisoners hugged themselves and crooned as they peered old landmarks and recognized the changing scenery. There was a new, cleaner tang in the hot wind that spoke of the "Hills" and home!

At Peshawar the train was shortened to three coaches and started up the spur-track, that leads to Jamrud, where a fort covers in the very throat of the deadliest gorge in Asia—the Khyber pass.

It was not a long journey, nor a very slow one, for there was nothing to block the way except occasional men with flags, who guarded culverts and little bridges. It was low tide under the Himalayas. The flood that was draining India of her armed men had left Jamrud high and dry with a little nondescript force stranded there, as it were, under a British major and some native officers. Frowning over Jamrud were the lean "Hills," peopled by the fiercest fighting men on earth, and the clouds that hung over the Khyber's course were an accent to the savagery.

But King smiled merrily as he jumped out of the train, and Rewa Gunga, who was to meet him, advanced with outstretched hand and a smile that would have melted snow on the distant peaks if he had only looked the other way.

"Welcome, King sahib!" he laughed, with the air of a skilled fencer who admires another, better one. "I shall know better another time and let you keep in front of me! I trust you had a comfortable journey?"

"Thanks," said King, shaking hands with him, and then turning away to unlock the carriage doors that held his prisoners in. They were bayong now like wolves to be free, and they surged out, like wolves from a cage, to clamor round the Rangar, pawing him and struggling to be the first to ask him questions.

"Nay, ye mountain people; nay!" he laughed. "I, too, am from the plains! What do I know of your families or of your friends? Am I to be torn to pieces to make a meal?"

At that Ismail interfered, with the aid of an ash pick handle, chance found beside the track. Laughing as if the whole thing was the greatest joke imaginable, Rewa Gunga fell into stride beside King and led him away in the direction of some tents.

"She is up the pass ahead of us," he announced. "She was in the deuce of a hurry, I can assure you. She wanted to wait and meet you, but matters were too jolly well urgent, and we shall have our daily work cut out to catch her, you can bet! But I have everything ready—tents and beds and stores—everything!"

King looked over his shoulder to make sure that Ismail was bringing the little leather bag along.

"So have I," he said quietly.

"I have horses," said Rewa Gunga, "and mules and—"

"How did she travel up the Khyber?" King asked him, and the Rangar spared him a curious sideways glance.

"The 'Hills' are her escort, King sahib. She is mistress in the 'Hills.' There isn't a murdering ruffian who would not lie down and let her walk on him! She rode away alone on a thoroughbred mare and she jolly well left me the mare's double on which to follow her. Come and look."

Not far from where the tents had been pitched in a cluster a string of horses whinnied at a picket rope. King saw the two good horses ready for himself, and ten mules beside them that would have done credit to any outfit. But at the end of the line, pawing at the trampled grass, was a black mare that made his eyes open wide. Once in a hundred years or so a vice-regent's cup or a Derby is won by an animal that can stand and look and move as that mare did.

"Never saw anything better," King admitted ungrudgingly.

"There is only one mare like this one," laughed the Rangar. "She has her."

"What'll you take for this one?" King asked him. "Name your price!"

"The mare is hers. You must ask her. Who knows? She is generous. There is nobody on earth more generous than she when she cares to be. See what you wear on your wrist?"

"That is a loan," said King, uncovering the bracelet. "I shall give it back to her when we meet."

"See what she says when you meet!" laughed the Rangar, taking a cigarette from his jeweled case with an air and smiling that he lighted it. "There is your tent, sahib."

With a nod of dismissal, King walked over to inspect the bandobast, and finding it much more extravagant than he would have dreamed of providing for himself, he lit one of his black cheroots, and with hands clasped behind him strolled over to the fort to interview Courtenay, the officer commanding.

It so happened that Courtenay had gone up the pass that morning with his shotgun after quail. He came back into view, followed by his little ten-man escort just as King, nearing the fort, and King tipped his approach so as to meet him. The men of the escort were heavily burdened; he could see that from a distance.

"Hello!" he said by the fort gate, cheerily, after he had saluted and the salute had been returned.

"Oh, hello, King! Glad to see you. Heard you were coming; of course. Anything I can do?"

"Tell me anything you know," said King, offering him a cheroot, which the other accepted. As he bit off the end they stood facing each other, so that King could see the oncoming escort and what it carried. Courtenay read his eyes.

"Two of my men?" he said. "Found 'em up the pass. Gazi work, I think. They were cut all to pieces. There's a big lasher gathering somewhere in the 'Hills,' and it might have been done by their skirmishers, but I don't think so."

"Who's supposed to be leading it?" "Can't find out," said Courtenay. Then he stepped aside to give orders to the escort. They carried the dead bodies into the fort.

"Know anything of Yasmin?" King asked, when the major stood in front of him again.

"By reputation, of course, yes. Famous person—sings like a bulbul—dances like the devil—lives in Delhi—men bet!"

King nodded. "When did she start up the pass?" he asked.

"She didn't start! I know who goes up and who comes down."

"Know anything of Rewa Gunga?" King asked him.

"Not much. Tried to buy his mare. Seen the animal? Gad! I'd give a year's pay for that beast! He wouldn't sell and I don't blame him."

"He told me just now," said King. "That Yasmin went up the pass unescorted, mounted on a mare the very dead spit of the black one you say you wanted to buy."

Courtenay whistled.

"I'm sorry, King. I'm sorry to say he lied."

King threw away his less than half consumed cheroot and they started to walk together toward King's camp. After a few minutes they arrived at a point from which they could see the prisoners lined up in a row facing Rewa Gunga. A less experienced eye than King's or Courtenay's could have recognized their attitude of reverent obedience. Within two minutes the Rangar stood facing them, looking more at ease than they.

"I was cautioning those savages!" he explained. "They're an escort. But they need a reminder of the fact, else they might jolly well imagine themselves mountain goats and scatter among the 'Hills!'"

He drew out his wonderful cigarette case and offered it open to Courtenay, who hesitated, and then helped himself. King refused.

"Major Courtenay has just told me," said King, "that nobody resembling Yasmin has gone up the pass recently. Can you explain?"

"Do you mean, can I explain why the major failed to see her? Pon my soul, King sahib, if you want me to insult the man? Yasmin is too jolly clever for me, or for any other man I ever met; and the major's a man, isn't he? He may pack the Khyber so full of men that there's only standing room and still she'll go up without his leave if she chooses! There is nobody like Yasmin in all the world!"

You can afford a California Vacation

THIS booklet tells how. It throws Southern California open to you in a new way. It explains how you can go when you want, where you want, as economically as you please.

Southern California, with all its beauty and variety, is the land of plenty. Fruits, vegetables, fowl and fish are abundant and cheap. A wide selection in hotels, bungalows and furnished apartments may be had to suit your purse. There are many reasonably priced boarding places. Numerous and inexpensive one-day excursions are offered by a network of electric lines. Balmy California climate saves fuel.

Two great railroads have established a bureau of travel experts to tell you how you can live in Southern California as economically as at home—or more so. This bureau is the Department of Tours. Its service is free.

The Department of Tours makes you and California acquainted before you go, and sees that you are comfortable while there. It confers with you, learns your desires, shows you how to fulfill them, and through its representatives in California, finds accommodations and even engages them.

To learn all that the Department of Tours can do, read the booklet, "Making California Easy." Please ask us for it today.

BUILDING THE NATION'S ROADS

Great Campaign For Better Highways Now On.

NEW NATIONAL PROBLEM.

Only About a Quarter of the Millions Annually Expended For Roads in the Past Has Been Spent Efficiently. Federal Road Act Promises Better Results.

More progressive road laws have been passed in the United States in the last four months than in any year since the establishment of the Union, writes Charles J. Haskin in the New York Globe. This season marks the beginning of actual building operations in a great campaign for better roads. The campaign will extend over years. The task is a colossal one, but the nation is working on a new plan which seems to spell success.

The new system was inaugurated by the passage of the federal aid road act at the last session of congress. During the winter the machinery for putting the law into operation was organized, and now, with the opening of another working season, the campaign begins. The federal road act appropriates $85,000,000 of government money to be spent entirely for better roads; it provides that the states must appropriate an equal amount, totaling $10,000,000 of the sum, which goes toward roads in national forests. More than that, however, the states have taken up the idea with so much enthusiasm that conservative officials state that all indications point to the states' covering the government money with two dollars for one, so that in all they will put up $150,000,000. This about $235,000,000 will be spent for road building in the next four years under the supervision of the office of public roads of the department of agriculture.

This road problem has come on us with a rush. It is a twentieth century problem, born of the growth of the cities, of the popularity of the automobile. Thirty years ago the road problem might conceivably have been considered as a local problem. Today the only possible way to consider it is as a national problem. The road from Brown's farm to Smith's store is a link in the chain that connects Maine and California and has to be regarded as such. There are 3,000 counties in the United States, and heretofore we have been attacking the road problem as 3,000 county problems. There is little doubt that it should be attacked as one national problem.

Only about a quarter of the millions spent annually for roads in the past has been spent in a way that can be called thoroughly efficient. The federal road act promises to get results for all the money spent on roads.

Millions upon millions will be spent by counties and states and the nation, yet there should be an actual profit to the American people in dollars and cents. It costs 23 cents to haul a ton a mile on the average country road today. On a first class road it costs 13 cents, and there are quite a few towns hauled over American roads every year.

With good roads the farmer can pick his own time for hauling instead of waiting on the weather and being forced to haul when he ought to be doing something else. With good roads the whole educational and social life of rural counties is revolutionized. We must have good roads. The only question is how to go about getting them. The federal aid road act promises to be a long step in the right direction. Its operation will be worth watching.

EARTH AND SAND ROADS.

Interesting Facts Concerning Highways Told In Government Report.

The office of public roads and rural engineering of the United States department of agriculture recently gathered statistics to the effect that nearly 7,000,000 miles of the 25,000,000 miles of public roads in the United States are of earth, sand-clay and gravel. Roads of these materials are therefore of predominant importance in most communities of the country and probably will remain so for many years. For this reason the office of public roads and rural engineering has issued a department of agriculture bulletin, No. 433, a comprehensive discussion of the materials, methods of construction and maintenance for the three types.

Most roads are located originally as earth roads, the bulletin points out. In such location work the fact that the road eventually may develop into an important highway should be kept constantly in mind and routes should be chosen which will not have to be radically changed, perhaps at great expense, at some future time. The tendency in many rural communities to locate all new roads along land lines has been responsible for much waste, it is pointed out.

The importance of grade, drainage and width of roads as well as the materials of which they are built is emphasized in the publication, and the machinery and tools used in constructing roads of the different materials are described. The necessity for adequate maintenance is brought out, and in this connection directions are given for the making and use of road drags. Typical specifications for the construction of roads from earth, sand-clay and gravel are included in an appendix to the bulletin.

WORMS AS BAIT.

My Dear Buck: The original bait that has hooked the palate of all kinds of fish since the first open season in the Garden of Eden and caused more of him to grace the frying pan than any other lure, of the thousands in use, is the common old worm. Called by some, the angleworm, by others, the fishworm, and knighted as the greatest bait ever, by the happy, bare-legged, knee-pants angler of the Order of the Long Cane Pole.

As a still-fishing bait for all kinds of fish the worm stands at the head of the class and he can wiggle into the affections of the finny tribe when many other baits don't even get a glance. Whether it is the fascinating wiggle of the head and tail of the worm, which should be hooked through the body a couple of times with the ends free, or the delicious flavor of this choice bit of fish food that makes it so popular, is a question that can only be settled by the fish, but it is a sure enough fact that they take to worms like a duck to water.

Four of a Kind.

One big point in favor of the worm is that it can be found in good numbers almost anywhere. A few turns of earth with a spade gives you enough bait for an afternoon's fishing. Four species of worms are probably the most useful in fishing, the black-headed worm without the band or knot-like ring which is rather dark in color and the toughest and best hooker of the lot, found in garden soil. The ringed worm with a ring around the body a little above the middle, and a flatter looking worm which is found under old manure heaps and such places. This worm is softer and does not make as good bait as the black-headed worm. The marsh worm, which has a whitish ring, and is pale blue in color and is found under stones and among decayed leaves and under rotted logs.

When worms are taken from the ground they are full of earth and until they are cleaned, do not make the best bait. A fish likes the pink color of the cleaned worm, and it is a simple matter to doctor them into first-class fish food. As soon as they are dug up out of their home grounds they should be washed well with water. Put them in a pan of water and stir them around with the finger, but don't crush them or shake roughly, then place them in an earthen crock or jar and put in plenty of moss. And here is the big point to remember in the "care of the worm," wring the moss thoroughly so that all water is eliminated. The moss must be kept dry in order to extract the moisture from the body of the worms, and thus toughen them for the hook.

The ringed worm can be cleaned in two or three days while the other three take at least a week to put them in clean pink shape. Every other day the worms should be examined and the sick looking brothers taken out, as well as the moss changed. Slip them a little food at the same time, slice of bread broken into small pieces, and a spoonful of milk or cream poured on, the moss is plenty, and will keep 'em while getting ready for the hook. Sounds like a joke to wash and feed your pet worms, but if you never offered a clean worm to the fish, just give it a try-out and take it from me, old-timer, you are certainly due for a surprise at the results. While the conditioning game is going on, keep the worm crock in a cool place.

Small Ones Great Bait.

When digging worms don't overlook the small ones. It is a mistaken idea that only the big worms get the big fish, often the largest worm will fall victim to the smallest fish. A small, clean, pink worm with a lively kick is more enticing to the big fellows than the big high crawler that you hunt with a lantern. When hooking the worm do not run the hook clear through the body, but simply hook it through the skin. About one-third way down the body, run the hook through the skin, then skip about a third of the body and run the hook through again, leaving about a quarter of the entire length of the worm wriggling loose at the barb of the hook. This keeps them lively and kicking and that attracts the big fellows, while a dead worm may get the smaller fish it don't appeal much to the kind you are generally after. When hooking a new worm always take off the small pieces of his predecessor.

When you have tried out everything else and the fish seem to be off the feed, slip a nice worm on the hook, and if that don't make them hungry you can feel certain that you have done your part in your effort to coax the big fish out of the water.

RUSSIAN RADICALS' OVERTHROW OF KERENSKY'S ADMINISTRATION THOUGHT INSPIRED BY BERLIN.

Russia's most recent upheaval has sprung largely from the disagreement between Premier Kerensky and the extreme radical group as to the representative of Russia at the approaching allied conference. The council of workmen and soldiers' deputies had named M. Skobelev as the "true representative of free Russia" and Kerensky's choice was M. Terestchenko, who had been termed by the radicals a "pro-English imperialist." The moderate elements of Russia regard the Petrograd disturbances as being not of nation-wide significance and look to the Constitutional Democrats, of whom Prof. Paul Milukoff is the leader, to deal with the situation.

SUPER CORD TIRES

TALK to the users of Firestone Super Cord Tires wherever you see them. They have a message worth many dollars to you. Lower cost per mile in tires and gasoline counts big these days, so here, there, everywhere Firestone Super Cords have become the goal of motorists.

These are Firestone Super Cord features that produce extraordinary performance. Numerous walls of stout cords. Pure gum separates cords and prevents friction. Extra thick cushion layer of pure gum under tread absorbs shocks and protects inner body of tire. Tough, thick, resilient tread.

Bead, which holds tire in rim, strongly reinforced, as is also the side wall. Hinge or bending point of tire thrown high where strain has least effect. Result, Most Miles per Dollar.

Firestone

FABRIC TIRES

THE outstanding feature of all Firestone accomplishments is continuous advancement. Firestone never stands still. Here are the definite improvements: Tougher Tread; More Cushion Stock; More Rubber Between Layers; Reinforcement in Side Wall.

See cross section of tire at your dealer's. A brief explanation will convince you that Firestone on Fabric as well as Cord Tires means Most Miles per Dollar.

That motorists find extra values in Firestone Tires is proved by the fact that our sales increased 72 per cent this year up to September 1st. Our total business this year will exceed $80,000,000.

LACK OF CLOTHING DELAYS DRAFT PLANS

(Special to the Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—The delay in calling the remaining men from Wisconsin into the mobilization camps is due to the lack of warm clothing at the camps. This is the substance of a telegram from the provost marshal general this morning.

The next movement of men for this state will be made during the period of November 15 to November 24. The camp commander of Camp Custer argues men who will move on these dates to bring with them warm undergarments, one heavy suit of clothing and a heavy overcoat. In previous orders, men coming into mobilization camps had been forbidden to bring any additional clothing, but because of conditions at the camps this order was rescinded and the above permission was granted. This will apply to the movement from the eastern district of Wisconsin, including the following points of entry: Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Sheboygan, Manitowish, Two Rivers, Port Washington, Burlington, Sturgeon Bay, Kewaunee, Green Bay, Chilton and Plymouth. This movement will include 1,711 of the registrants, making thirty percent of the quota of the eastern district.

From the eastern district of the state, there is now in mobilization camp almost five thousand men, including the movement of November 12. There remain to go from this district approximately 1,500 men. Wisconsin, there is now in mobilization camp sixty-five percent of their quota, or almost four thousand men. There remain to be called from the western district almost 1,500 men. All men who will be required to go into mobilization camp under the first draft will be called up in military order before November 15, the date set for the setting into full swing of the machinery of the second draft.

No more applications will be received at the governor's office to correct hardship in the draft law. Under these provisions thirty men have been released to date from Camp Custer. The provost marshal general in his telegram says that ample opportunity has been given now to present all such claims. However, further opportunity is offered to military men in the next movement to present such claims to the commanding officer at the camp within seven days after their arrival.

With the number of cases that have already been presented through the governor's office, there remain none to be included within this provision, except cases caused by death or otherwise.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, Nov. 15.—The Ayatale club, composed of nearly all the pretty girls in Edgerton are sponsors for a dance to be held in Academy hall on November 16th. The dance is in the nature of a fund-raiser for the Edgerton boys at Camp MacArthur at Waco, Texas. The music is furnished by the Edgerton orchestra, and Mrs. Schmeling has donated the use of the hall and the following will do their bit by appearing on the program at 8:30:
Vocal Soloists—Mrs. J. C. Wamaker, Vocal Soloist—Mrs. F. O. Holt, Reading—Mrs. J. N. Glubb, Violin Duet—Misses Wilson and Burdick.
Shout Solo—Prof. F. O. Holt.
The girls have been very active in selling tickets and have made progress at canvassing of the business section and most of the resident section of the city. They have sold about $200 worth of tickets to date, and hope to sell many more before the 16th.

The 13th Sunday School of the Norwegian Lutheran church will be entertained Thursday evening of this week in the church parlors by Miss Hilda Mure, who is home on a fourteen days' furlough, gave a short address to the high school pupils yesterday morning regarding the need of a navy. The church is now serving on one of the interned German ships that was seized at the outbreak of the war and that is now used in transport service.

Prior to Seamonson appeared before Justice Long this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness and was fined the limit, $25.00, and costs and for the first time he was sentenced to 150 additional days so that unless he is able to raise the money he will be a guest of Sheriff Whipple for 150 days. He came to Edgerton Saturday night, imbibed too freely and was arrested. He appeared in Justice Long's court Monday and paid a fine of $10 and costs, after pleading guilty to the charge of drunkenness. He was then sentenced to 150 additional days. That they were to his liking is evidenced by the fact that he appeared in court Tuesday night for the charge of drunkenness and paid a fine of $5.00 and costs. Tuesday night Mr. Seamonson returned to his first love and was found trying to sleep off a drunk near the Swift street bridge on Wednesday morning when an auto truck was pressed into service to haul him to jail. Then came the fine of $10 and costs. Seamonson came to Edgerton on Saturday night with $155 according to the story he told in court this morning. Less than $20 of this amount has been paid as fines and the balance has been spent to help the war by paying the tax on beer and whiskey. Mr. Seamonson has made no contribution as yet to the Red Cross or Army Y.

The marriage of Winifred Drotning and Oscar L. Olson took place at the bride's home on South Monroe street in Stoughton at one o'clock yesterday afternoon. The wedding was a very quiet and unpretentious affair, only a small gathering of the immediate relatives witnessing the ceremony at which Rev. M. H. Hoyer officiated. The bride was crowned in pale gray silk. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo. The couple were united during the ceremony. After congratulations had been tendered, a three-course wedding dinner was served in the dining room which with the other rooms was decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums. Later in the afternoon the destination of which they did not announce, but upon their return they will go to house-keeping in one of the Maltress flats which they have furnished.

Miss Drotning is the daughter of Postmaster Ed. Drotning and Mr. Olson is the son of Mrs. Stewart Olson of Hanover, Wis. He is cashier of the First National Bank of this city and was formerly assistant cashier of the citizen's National bank of Stoughton. Both are very well and favorably known in both Edgerton and Stoughton and a large host of friends extend congratulations and best wishes.

The friends of Attorney Geo. Blanchard, Stewart Atwood, George Blanchard and Willard Doty are all planning on a wild goose or duck support in the very near future. These four gentlemen left in the wee hours of the morning with big guns and much ammunition. It is understood that a highway trailer was hooked on behind the Jit so that all the game could be brought back.

ENLISTMENTS FOR THE STATE TROOPS

Governor Phillips Has Made an Appeal to Citizens of Wisconsin to Rally to the Flag.

Rock county has been called upon to fill up the missing quota of the Wisconsin troops at Camp MacArthur to the required number of men under the new army regulations of two hundred and fifty men to a company. Even by the absorption of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Wisconsin infantry, the total quota is still twelve hundred short. Michigan, the other end of the "Nut Cracker Division," is filling its quota from men who have been drafted and is taking its share from Camp Custer at Battle Creek, Michigan. Governor Phillips hopes to fill the Wisconsin quota by enlistment and has issued a call to enlist men for the Wisconsin contingent everywhere in the state.

Thus far fifteen young men have signified their intention of joining the colors in Janesville and the immediate vicinity. Of these several are between the ages of sixteen and eighteen and must have their parents' consent. None are of the draft age and but one is a white who is entered far down the line in another state.

On Wednesday afternoon Captain W. A. Hauser and First Lieutenant William Trimble of the Wisconsin State Guard came to Janesville and picked up several prospects. They will be added to the quota from the second assembly district and this will lessen that district's assessment of men on the next draft. Thus far with the exception of the opening of the Sixteenth Separate Company's armory for registration on Monday and Tuesday evening of this week and enlistment received by the captain of the company, no concerted action has been taken in the first assembly district as far as can be learned.

While notices were published that enlistments might be made at the office of the chairman of the local exemption board, Sheriff George J. White, and at the office of County Clerk Lee of the exemption board which is authorized to enlist and care for all persons who apply, up to noon today none had applied. The fifteen who asked for information all made personal application at the Sixteenth Separate Company's armory.

In the second assembly district the board of exemptions, which is empowered to take enlistments, made arrangements for the necessary expenses for the recruiting purpose and as a consequence some sixty men are enlisted by Captain Hauser of the Wisconsin State Guard, examined and are now at Jefferson barracks waiting equipment for shipment to Waco to join their regiment. Before the banner record for Wisconsin as to enlistments and add to that the men they picked up here Wednesday they will reduce their quota materially.

Adjutant General Holway of the Wisconsin State Guard will send a recruiting sergeant to Janesville on Friday, November 16th to aid in the recruiting of the first assembly district quota. He will be found at the Sixteenth Separate Company's armory at the corner of Milwaukee and Franklin streets, third floor, from 10 o'clock on. All men between sixteen and eighteen years of age, who have their guardians' or parents' consent and all between the ages of eighteen and twenty who desire to enlist, can learn full particulars at that time.

This is the final drive for recruits and the first assembly district should do its share. All men who contemplate enlistment—this does not include those who have been examined for draft service, will find it to their advantage to get into active service at once by enlisting and being assigned to one of the Wisconsin regiments with friends, then wait and be sent to a training camp later.

EXPERTS WILL DISCUSS NEW METHODS OF Y. W. C. A.

The many problems encountered by the Y. W. C. A. at this time has called for new methods, which will be discussed by trained experts in that line at a county meeting which is called at Library hall for Friday afternoon at two o'clock. Mrs. Anderson, chairman of the county defense committee, will be present, as also a speaker sent out from the state board at Madison. It is hoped that a large attendance, especially of ladies, will be present.
